Book recommendation of the week

Fantastic Mr Fox – Roald Dahl
This book offers a wonderful insight into Roald Dahl's use of alliteration and language. It is also on our Year 2 recommended reading list, why not read it, review it and be in with a chance of winning a £50 book voucher 😊

Headteacher's Message

Hello All,
One of the lovely things about my job is the predictability.
So, when I listened to the Wolves rehearse, I predicted they would do well and sing with confidence and skill.
When I saw the itinerary, I predicted it would be a long and patience taking day.
I was wrong!!!! The day flew by and the Wolves were so much better than I had predicted. I was so impressed by their performance. I had the opportunity to sit in direct eyeline and they certainly belted it out, but the most impressive thing was just how slick they were in comparison to other schools. They stood as one and when singing, their voices blended beautifully and each child was pronouncing the words excellently (their mouths were all doing the same thing at the same time). There was also the complexity of actions in one of the songs. They did them as a unit. It really was a well-polished and professional performance.
In other news, the book reviews are being completed in school but if any children would like to submit extra entries that they work on for extended time at home (to improve upon the one written) they have until Tuesday to get it to school.
Finally, we are organising visitors to the school and we will soon be welcoming an Olympic and Commonwealth medallist to the school. Parents will be welcome too. Details ASAP.
As ever thanks for your support,
Sol Johnson

Curriculum news

Cubs Class

This week in the Cubs class, we have been thinking about Penguins. We have looked at the different species which live in Antarctica and begun our scale pictures of them. We have also been busy preparing and filming book reviews for some of our favourite books: 'Dogger,' by Shirley Hughes, 'We're Going on a Bear,' Hunt by Michael Rosen and 'Superworm,' by Julia Donaldson. In Literacy we have also drawn story maps for Lost and Found and completed an independent write based on this book. In maths, reception have continued to think about recognising and ordering numbers to 20 whilst year one and two have been solving problems involving more and less.

Pups Class

This week we have been planning, writing and presenting our book reviews to enter into the trust-wide competition which are looking fantastic! We have also begun looking at writing information texts and labelling the features we would expect to find in these. We have continued to develop our knowledge of column addition and subtraction and have looked at carrying into and borrowing from the tens. We have carried out research on Galileo in Science to began to draw comparisons with Sir Isaac Newton. We have designed our Christmas stockings for our textiles project and have had a go at some stitches to practice before we begin the real thing! We have also learnt to name some body parts in French.

Wolves Class

The Wolves had an amazing time at the Royal Albert Hall this week. Everyone sang fantastically and we had an amazing day. We would like to say a massive thank you to Mrs Roby for all of her effort towards the performance. We would not have been able to do so well without the support that she gave us throughout. As well as the epic day in London we have also been investigating soluble materials, creating computer games, African drumming and we've even started to practise for our class assembly on Wednesday 22nd November. The Fox class have been writing book reviews for the DRET competition. We picked a book from the reading list and then wrote an extended review about it. In maths we have been dividing using different methods. We have been learning about factors and we have used them to divide.
